RADAR Toilets

The Royal Association for Disability and Rehabilitation (RADAR) operate a National Key Scheme (NKS) to disabled toilets which have to be locked to prevent damage and misuse. A RADAR key is a skeleton key that opens more than 10,000 disabled toilets in the UK.

Toilets fitted with RADAR or NKS locks can be found in shopping centres, pubs, cafes, department stores, bus and train stations and many other locations in most parts of the country.

The RADAR Key Scheme enables these disabled toilets to be locked to prevent vandalism and misuse, so customers can be confident that these toilets will be available to meet their needs.

You may be asked to show documents that provide evidence of a disability. Keys can usually be bought by carers or family members for someone with a disability, although we recommend contacting key sellers directly to find out what their sales policy is and to check they have stock before making a special trip.

There are several sources on-line if you search for 'buying a radar key'.

Costs vary across all points of purchase, from £1.80 to £10 or more, depending on the metal used and style. A single key fits all participating RADAR toilets across the UK.
